THE CYNTHIANA NEWS

CYNTHIANA, KY.
THURSDAY, Oct., 3, 1867

A. J. MOREY, EDITOR.

The following resolution we publish by request of a few of our old Democratic friends in Harrison. It is the first resolution of 1798, and is certainly as sound Democracy as any white man needs. Let every Democrat cut it out and paste it in his hat:

The First Kentucky Resolution of 1798.

Resolved, That the several States composing the United States, are not united on the principles of unlimited submission to their General Government, but that by a compact, under the style and title of a Constitution for the United States, and of amendments thereto, they constituted a General Government, for special purposes—delegated to that Government certain definite powers, reserving each State to itself, the residuary mass of right to their self-government; and that when the General Government assumes undelegated power, its acts are unauthorized, void, and of no force; that to this compact each State acceded as a State, and is an integral party, its co-States forming to itself, the other party; that the Government created by this compact was not made the exclusive or final judge of the extent of the powers delegated to its itself, since that would have made its discretion, and not the Constitution, the measure of its powers; but that, as in all other cases compact among powers having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of intrusions as of the mode and measure of redress.

We mourn the loss of that noble old hero, and friend of the "faithful," Gen. Sterling Price. The following is from St. Louis to the Cincinnati Enquirer:

St. Louis, Sept. 30, '67.

The funeral ceremonies of General Sterling Price took place this afternoon at the First Methodist Church. His remains were placed in state at Dr. Boyle's church, from ten o'clock in the morning till the opening of the funeral ceremonies, and were visited by thousands of our citizens. A continuous throng wended their way through the aisles from the time of opening the doors, ushers being placed at each entrance to direct visitors as to the route of entry and exit. The coffin was a beautiful piece of mahogany workmanship, ornamented with solid silver, and the inside was tastefully cushioned with black velvet. The body was dressed in a plain suit of black broadcloth, the coat buttoned up, his hands enrobed in white satin gloves, and folded over his breast, and a black necktie encircling a linen standing collar.

Southern Hotel,
Lexington, Sept. 29, '67.

Dear "News":

It has been a week of pleasure and dust at the Fair. It was pleasant to see so many people meet on peaceful terms, and on principles of hospitality—attempt to outdo each other in kindness and love. Here rads and rebs drank and eat together without a wave of trouble to roll across their peaceful breasts. These are strong indications that the people are in a serene state of mind, and desirous that our State should remain unmolested and quiet, from federal interference. Dust was plentiful and a great annoyance. No rain has fallen in this country for months, and I doubt very much if any is seen before Christmas. Old mother earth is very thirsty.

The show of stock was good, equal to any Fair we have attended this year, but the interest in associations of this kind is not half so great as before the war. The people of Fayette have no amphitheatre now, but propose to erect one soon. They need one very much.

The young people amused themselves every evening at the Southern Hotel, the proprietors, of which, extended invitations to all the beauty and chivalry of the country, to dance, the fleeting hours away, and I have never been present at any hops that were better conducted or more numerously attended. It was a gay and festive party, and when "music arose with its swell, soft eyes looked love to eyes, which spake again, and all went merry as a marriage bell." Here many a lonely heart found one whose sympathetic vibrations harmonized, and whose sadness will be broken with happy thoughts that ere long their names will be recorded in heaven, that "Two souls exist with a single thought, and Two hearts that beat as one." Who will say then, that to dance is sinful, when heaven takes notice of words that are spoken in a ball room, and vows that are unbroken, but brought to a happy termination, outside? I have long since been convinced that there is more truth in the heart of woman, than man—that in her heart is a living well spring of purity and innocence, and unless perverted, will grow stronger, clearer and sweeter, until the soul shall be redeemed in immortality. And none should cease to admire and honor her for her virtues. "Behold thy Mother," was one of the last utterances of Him, who died that we might live; and during his sublunar stay, always looked to her as his first and firmest friend.

I cannot close this letter without noticing a few of the ladies who were most attractive for their beauty, elegance and style, and among that number, I will mention Mrs. Almedia P., of Iberville, La. "The light of love, the purity of grace, the mind, the music breathing from her face, all combined, surrounded her with plenty of admirers. Mrs. G. W.—n, of Lexington, was beautiful as poets dream; Miss J—s, and her friend, Miss A—r, of Paris, "grace was in their steps;" Miss Nannie B—d, of Lexington, "Tis said times wing but seem'd in stealing o'er, to leave her lover than before." Miss B—k, and her friend Miss Sue C—y, had a host of admirers, for they were among the fairest of the fair. Miss W—t, of Huntsville, Ala., had many friends around her, "And then her look, oh! where's the heart so wise, could, unbewildered, meet those matchless eyes?" The Miss W—t's, of Cynthiana, graced the party with their elegance and beauty. It might be said of Miss H—t, of Woodford, that "such harmony in motion, speech and air, that without fairness she was more than fair." There were a host of beauties from Lexington and Fayette, whose grace and fairness surrounded them with plenty of courtly cavaliers. Among them I noticed the Misses P—n's, Miss C—n, Miss W—d, Miss Georgie C—s, Miss McC—r, Miss K—e, Miss D—n, Miss McG—h, Miss W—l, Miss M—n.

Miss S—s, of Paducah, with overpowering presence made you feel it would not be idolatry to kneel." True beauty never was defined, and features painted to the mind," unless it could be found in the fair form of Miss B—n, of Louisville.

Miss S—t, of Franklin, and Miss B—h, of Anderson, were "so fair, that had you beautys picture took, it must like them, or not like beauty look."

The music was furnished by Prof. Timmins, and it was the best we have ever heard. Colonels Worley & Barclay, the proprietors of the Southern, are entitled to the thanks of the young people, for the pains they took to make their friends comfortable and happy. The Southern is the people's hotel in Lexington. I hope I may live to see another hop at that house. In the meantime remember your friend MARS.

In Commission.—In England when the Lord Chancellor dies or vacates, and the King does not choose to appoint his successor immediately, he puts the great seal "in commission," as they call it. This practice has never obtained in this country, so far as we know, until recently. There is a little clerkship down in Frankfort which they dignify with the name of Assistant Secretary of State, and instead of appointing a suitable person to fill it, the authorities have appointed a pro-temp Secretary, and are holding it "in commission." This is a right royal way of doing things in a small way, and looks quite as ridiculous as royal, if not more so. The thing is anti-Democratic, and may tell against the authors of it in a way they will not like. We hope an end will be put to this absurd state of affairs, and that some poor but honest Democrat, who is suffering for the salary and is qualified to perform the duties, may get the appointment.—Kentucky Gazette.

The editor of the Cynthiana, Ky., News complains of the scarcity of marriageable young ladies in that vicinity. We advise our friend Morey to procure a "sub," and get a leave of absence for a few days and come here, for if he feels matrimonially inclined we guarantee he can be furnished company home.—Indianapolis Herald.

Good for you, Col. Develin, you are correct as to our feelings; they are "matrimonially," and always have been desperately that way "inclined," and we will accept your polite invitation, and will drop in on you, perhaps, when you least expect us. We are somewhat unique and in our movements matrimonial act altogether on the "defensive." But you are wrong, as to the scarcity of marriageable young ladies in Cynthiana. This is the "City of the Maidens," and marriageable ones are as plentiful as the diamond, sparkling jewels, that hang in the firmament of heaven, and as bright and beautiful as the rising sun, in the idea of October. Colonel, we respectfully invite you to Cynthiana. Make it an inspection tour, and if you are as lonely as the "News" man, and are pleased with the royal Kentucky queens, you are "expected to have company home."

A Good Hit.—An editor who seems to have lost his temper, gets off the following well merited hit:

"Those fellows who don't take their home paper, watch them! they are on the alert on publication day, and when the papers come around to your place of business, are the first to snatch it up; failing in this they read it over your shoulder, too impatient to demean themselves in a respectful manner. Spot these fellow. They are the small souled, stingy, handful, who go through the world on other folks' money."

One of our Western exchanges says:

We notice in an Indiana paper the marriage of Mr. Thos. N. Lyons to Miss Mollie Lamb. Another Scriptural prophecy in process of fulfilment.—The lion and the lamb shall lie down together, and after a while, a little child shall lead them?

Let the Negro Beware.—The New Citizen, of the 24th, edited by (Miles O'Reiley) Gen. Halpin, who served with distinction in the Union army, thus speaks:

The daily papers are making a great muddle over the opinions of the prominent generals and the people at large on the question of reconstruction. They tell us that Grant approves of the course of the President, that Sherman favors the plan of Congress, or vice versa, according to their political bias. We can tell them all that if the Congressional system is to put the South in possession of the negroes, it does not meet the views of the people, the sailors in our fleets, the soldiers in our armies, the merchant at our desks, the farmers at their plows, or any other large body of our citizens. St Domingo is not what we fought for; we do not want it, and will not have it; and that the negroes, whether white or black, may understand as well first as last. Nations are cruel when driven to despair, and rather than surrender our white nationality, we will massacre and enslave every colored man in the States. This may be bold language and unconventional, but we ask our readers whether it does not meet the confirmation of their hearts? We have sacrificed too many whites for a principle to stop at taking the lives of a few worthless blacks.

PEACE.—Are the people of Kentucky as bad and as fierce toward each other as the political papers of the State represent them to be? Are the Union men and Rebels living in a condition of semi-warfare? Let any one go to one of our large fairs, and see rads and rebs mixing in familiar conversation, greeting each other with a hearty how-d'y-e-do, inviting each other to their tables, and vieing with each other in making their guests happy, and not one word of politics spoken, and he will be satisfied that it can hardly be so that the members of the different political parties are "nursing the wrath" engendered during the war. 'Tis true, we hear now and then some blatant rebel thrusting his offensive treasonable talk in the face of Union men; and sometimes Union men, with more bitterness than brains, insulting rebels; but we believe these cases are very exceptional. The hatred is seen and felt only in the newspapers, and is kept alive by those on whom who think that their passport to prosperity will be gained by saying hard and abusive things. Such journalists deliberately propose to live by fanning the flame of dissension. They are the Camanches of society ever ready to dye their hands in blood, and utter cursings, if they can gain a penny thereby. In this country, where every man claims the right to form and express in a becoming manner, his opinion on every question, most certainly every one should concede the same right to others; and the men who do claim this right with most earnestness, and exercise it most fearlessly, are usually the very ones that are the most charitable to those who differ with them. The politician who abuses his political opponent, instead of fairly discussing his opinions, usually does so because of a lack of brains. Let the people disown those men who would fan the flame of hatred in their breasts, and mix together often, look into each other's eyes, and speak face to face, and soon you will be convinced that you are not correctly represented by such journals. Let editors boil over with indignation and wrath, if they will; but let them dig holes in the ground and pour their vituperation into them, that it may sink to its own place, and not disturb the more peaceful thoughts and feelings of their neighbors.—Lexington Herald.

A CARD TO INVALIDS.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of nervous weakness, early decay, diseases of the urinary and seminal organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, free of charge. Prizes amounting to $230,656.

32,000 Numbers and 788 Prizes.

Tickets $12, Halves 6, Quarters $4

PLAN OF THE LOTTERY.

The numbers from 1 to 32,000 printed on separate slips of paper, are encircled with small thin tubes, and placed in one wheel. The prizes, of which there are 788, varying as above, from $30,000 to $50, are similarly printed on separate slips, encircled and placed in another wheel. The wheels are then revolved, and a number is drawn from the wheel of numbers, and at the same time a prize is drawn from the other wheel. The number and prize drawn are opened and exhibited to the audience, and registered, the prize being placed against the number drawn. This operation is repeated until all the prizes are drawn out.

The above magnificent single number Lottery will be drawn in public, in Covington, Ky., by sworn Commissioners, at one o'clock p.m., at the corner of 4th and Scott streets. The Kentucky State Lotteries are no Gift Enterprises, but responsible lottery lotteries, that have been conducted for the past thirty years, and are drawn under the authority of a charter from the State, and bonds are given for the payment of all prizes. The drawings are published in the New York Herald and the Cincinnati Commercial.

The above scheme will be drawn the middle and last of each month during 1867 and 1868.

Circulars of Lotteries drawing daily sent by application to the managers.

Three inches of snow fell at Nelson, N. H., on last Monday.

Hon. Jefferson Davis and wife were at Toronto, Canada, last Monday.

We understand that the bridge over Licking river at Berry's Station, is progressing rapidly.

Esq., Lewis Day, has commenced laying brick on his new business house.

Mr. A. A. Bassett has our thanks for the apples laid on our table. They were splendid.

SOIREE MAGIQUE.—Prof. Tucker, the Illusionist, who was for several years connected with Sig. Blitz, will give one of his entertainments this evening at the court-house.

Our worthy and highly respected friend, Mrs. Kate Leuba, will accept our thanks for the delicious fruit, apples and grapes, received at this office last Monday. We have seldom had the pleasure of seeing such fine specimens.

We have received two ears of corn from the farm of Mrs. Joel Frazer, which, considering the season, is as fair as any we have seen, containing about twenty rows of kernels, and about twelve inches long. Corn is good in Harrison.

We have received a copy of the Louisville Journal. It is the first we have seen since 1861. It seems to be Democratic in its politics, and is edited with some ability by Geo D. Prentice, and Paul Shipman. We wish them success as long as they oppose radical abolitionism.

Two friends of the faithful called on us last week. Capt. W. H. Ratcliff, of Baltimore, and Capt. Bob Alexander, of New Orleans. They are good and true men. Long may they wave.

Some three weeks past we have been in receipt of a new daily paper, recently established in Louisville, called the "Louisville Evening Standard." J. R. Buchanan is editor, and his articles are readable and pungent. He is a man of ability, and thus far his principles have harmonized with the old Democratic creed. We wish the enterprise success.

We regret to learn that our friend, Jos. Scott, of this county, died at Omaha, Nebraska, September 21st, 1867, of cholera. He was one of the "faithful," having served in the Confederate army nearly four years.

"But thou art gone to the grave, and 'twere wrong to deplore thee,
When God was thy ransom thy guardian and guide;
He gave thee, and took thee, and soon will restore thee
Where death has no sting, since the Saviour has died."

We notice that our Post-Master, Mr. Magee, has changed his location from Main to Pike street, and he will be found in one of Mr. Webster's new buildings, next door to Magnolia Saloon. The post-office in this city presents a very respectable appearance, looking more like a post-office, than at any time heretofore. Mr. Magee says he proposes to open a first-class News Depot, when he hopes to furnish the reading public with all foreign newspapers.

We have just learned from our friend, J. T. Hogg, Esq., that the surviving members of Roger Hanson's Brigade, (friends of the faithful,) are discussing the propriety of having a grand supper and dance at Louisville, Ky. The Fall's City is designated as the proper place, because there are many more of that command there than elsewhere. We hope it will come off, and that it may be said by all who attend, that it was good to have been there.

Married.—At the residence of the bride's father, in Sumner county, on the 2d of July, Mr. Ebenezer Sweet to Miss Jane Lemon.

"How happily extremes do meet
In Jane and Ebenezer;
She is no longer sour but sweet,
And he's a Lemon-Squeezee."

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Kellar & Welsh, in another column. They are deserving, and having embarked in a new business, we hope it may prove successful. Call and buy new furniture. They sell at Cincinnati prices.

Yesterday Capt. B. B. Frain, a gentleman we met on the "blue wing," last spring on our way to the Carrollton Democratic Convention, called on us. He is a citizen of Covington, and a subscriber of the "News." His head is level.

Any person having lost a grey stallion, last April or May, can learn something of the whereabouts of the stolen horse, on application to Capt. Ben. Bigstaff, Owingsville, Bath county, Ky.

The funeral ceremonies of L. Penn, Esq., will take place under auspices of the Masonic Fraternity, at Mt. Zion Church, on Raven Creek, Tuesday, October 8th, 1867.

The members of the order are respectfully invited to attend.

MARRIED.

On the 24th inst., by the Rev. Dr. Dillard, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. W. H. Polk, and Miss Charlotte H., daughter of Jesse H. Talbot, of Fayette.

At Maysville, on the 12th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. F. Willett, by Rev. J. H. Perry, Mr. J. A. King, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. H. Hinton.

On the 22d inst., by Rev. Geo. B. Savage, Mr. Jason Sanders, of Illinois, and Miss Norah Pierce, of Carlisle.

At the Ascension Church, Frankfort, on the evening of the 21st inst., by Rev. J. N. Norton, Dr. R. O. Cowling, of Louisville, and Miss Mary, daughter of Col. S. B. Churchill.

On Thursday evening last, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. D. Walk, Mr. James Bell, of Lexington, to Miss Jimmie Duncan, of Paris, Ky.

On Thursday evening, August 28th, at the residence of the bride, in Shreveport, La., Mr. Wm. C. Perrin to Mrs. George T. Sharpe.

At the residence of Mr. W. B. Reneker, on Tuesday, Sept. 24, 1867, by Rev. J. C. Hardy, Mr. D. Ammerman to Miss Bettie Bennett. Attendants, Miss Jennie Ray, of Lexington, and Mr. W. Craig; Mr. Tucker and Miss Mollie Ammerman.

The cake came to hand, and we hope that their lives may prove as sweet as the cake we received.

BIRTH.—On the 13th of September, wife of Capt. Bob Alexander, of New Orleans, of a son.

THE TRUTH ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

Whoever says that dyspepsia is incurable, tells a— that is to say, makes an egregious mistake. More than ten thousand aggravated cases have been cured by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, while the number that have been prevented from coming to head, by the same means, is incalculable. In this season of the year, when the appetite is sometimes too vigorous for the comfort and safety of the stomach, indigestion is most prevalent and most distressing. Is the appetite to be balked to accommodate the digestive organs? Not so; for then the frame would lack its due proportion of nutriment. The thing to be done is to strengthen the stomach, tone the liver, and put the bowels in perfect order. Nothing will do this so effectually, so rapidly, so quietly, so pleasantly, as Hostetter's Bitters. This potent preparation trims and balances the system, and clothes it, as it were, with defensive armor. Chronic dyspepsia, liver complaint, and fever and ague are never known to attack those who are wise enough to invoke the aid of this great preventive.
